

2. What is the chief point the writer is trying to make?

Sometimes, the main ideas in a piece of writing are inferred. This means that they are not explicitly (openly) stated. A paragraph may lack a topic sentence, but that does not mean that it lacks main ideas. You will need to figure out the implied idea by deciding on the point of all the details.

In a story, the following questions can help you to determine or locate the main idea.

1. What is the topic/subject matter?
2. What message is the writer trying to pass across?
3. What lesson did you learn from the story?

Assignment

Read the comprehension passage on unit 11 "Dogo refuses advice and answer the comprehension questions.

Reference material

New concept English language for senior secondary schools Book 1 by J. Eyisi et al learn Africa.

WEEK THREE

Consonant followed by /w/.

The place of articulation of the /w/ sound is glottal and the manner of articulation is semi vowel while the state of the glottis is voiced. Examples of words with consonants followed by /w/ include: twist, sweep, twig, swap, tweet, twice, tweak, sweat, sweater, sweet, swell, swelling.

Assignment

With the aid of the dictionary, advanced oxford learners. Give the phonetic transcription of the following words: tweet, sweater, twice, twist and sweep.

Structure: Noun Phrases

A phrase is a group of words (with or without a non-finite verb) that does not make sense and which only forms part of sentence.