Definition of Creative Writing:

Creative writing is the ability to use imagination and originality to compose literary works such as stories, poems, plays, and essays. It involves expressing ideas, emotions, or experiences creatively.

Types of Creative Writing:

1. Prose: this includes short stories, novels, and essays. In writing prose, we focus on narration, character development, and plot.
2. Poetry: it uses rhythm, rhyme, and figurative language to express ideas. It's often shorter and more emotionally expressive.
3. Drama/Play: it's written in dialogue form for performance. It includes acts, scenes, characters, and stage directions.

Students' Activities: Students listen, ask questions, and repeat key points after the teacher.
