

Informal Letter

An Informal Letter is also known as a Personal Letter. It is a kind of letter that is often written to people that are related or close to us in one way or another. It could be letters written to our family members like our parents, siblings, our relatives and also friends.

Just as the name implies, informal letters are usually informal in nature that is, the writer can choose to use words in an informal way since the reader is known to the writer and thus, certain degree of cordial relationship has already been established by both individuals.

Features of Informal Letter

1. The Writers Address (At the right hand side of the paper)
2. Date
3. Salutation eg (Dear mother/father) etc
4. Body of the Letter
5. Complimentary Close
6. First name of the writer (At the right hand side of the paper)

Semi-Formal Letter

A semi-formal letter is a letter that falls in between formal and informal letters in terms of tone and language. The semi-formal letters can be written to your teachers, boss, colleagues, neighbors, business associate, etc. they include; complaint letters, request letters, etc

Features of Semi-Formal Letter

1. Address; write the return address (your own address) at the top right hand side of the paper, followed by the date.
2. Salutation; if you do not know the name of the recipient, you may write the position as in 'Dear Sir' or 'Dear Madam,'. But in a case where the recipient is known, it can thus be written as, 'Dear Mrs Lucy'.
3. Introduction; the introductory sentence should not be too formal or informal.
4. Body; devote about four clear, direct and specific paragraphs to the body and present only one main idea per paragraph.
5. Complimentary close; this ranges from more formal to less formal. Example; Your truly, respectfully yours, best regards, warmest regards, cordially, best wishes etc
6. The complimentary close is immediately followed by your signature and your full name,